Review of Mid-Semester and Early Warning Grades Policies and Procedures

March 2015

BACKGROUND

In March 2014, a proposal was submitted by an undergraduate student to the Senate Executive Committee (SEC) regarding a mandate for instructors to use the Enterprise Learning Management System (ELMS) and to report Mid-Semester grades for all undergraduate students. The SEC reviewed this proposal in April 2014 and decided to send the proposal back to the student, but also to charge the Academic Procedures & Standards (APAS) Committee with conducting a broader review of Mid-Semester and Early Warning Grades procedures at the University. The undergraduate student's proposal was attached to the charge for the committee's reference. The SEC asked APAS to review the information about Early Warning Grades as provided in the Faculty Handbook (<http://faculty.umd.edu>), and consider whether the creation and implementation of a formal policy would be beneficial for the University. The official charge from the SEC is attached to this report as Appendix 1.

COMMITTEE WORK

The APAS Committee began its review of this charge in fall 2014. Over the course of several months, the committee carefully reviewed the language on Early Warning Grades as provided in the Faculty Handbook. The committee confirmed that the process described in the Faculty Handbook is not official University policy.

N.B.; as discussed in more detail below, under "Peer Institution Research," the committee noted that a variety of terms are used to describe early performance evaluation of students; the preferred term was found to be "Mid-Term Grades," and this term is used throughout except when referring to the charge or other existing documents that use other terminology.

The APAS Committee fulfilled the requirements of its charge, as follows:

Administrative Consultation

The APAS Committee met with the initial undergraduate student proposer in September 2014 to learn more about her rationale for submitting a proposal to the SEC on this topic. The committee also met with three academic advisors from across campus in October 2014, to discover more about the usefulness of Early Warning Grades for advising purposes. Academic advisors from the College of Behavioral & Social Science (BSOS), the A. James Clark School of Engineering (ENGR), and Letters & Sciences (LTSC) expressed the tremendous benefits of Early Warning Grades for the advising process with undergraduate students. All of the advisors with whom the committee consulted were highly in favor of utilizing Early Warning Grades as a useful tool for students. It was reported to the committee that at least one department on campus has analyzed relevant data over recent years to see how effective Early Warning Grades are in contributing to student success, with positive results.

The Chair of the APAS Committee also consulted with an Associate Dean in the College of Computer, Math & Natural Sciences (CMNS) to find out more about the technological side of how Early Warning Grades are entered, analyzed, and used by colleges/schools. In addition, the Chair of APAS met with the Senate Educational Affairs Committee, as directed by the committee's charge, in order to gather further input and feedback on the committee's proposed policy and procedures.

Throughout its review, the APAS Committee continually consulted with representatives of the Office of the Dean for Undergraduate Studies, the Office of Faculty Affairs, and the Office of the University Registrar. The University Registrar provided recent data and statistics on Early Warning Grades for the committee's review. The committee found that less than half of the Early Warning Grades that should have been issued for applicable students in spring 2014 were actually issued.

Peer Institution Research

During the fall 2014 semester, the APAS Committee evaluated similar policies and practices for undergraduates at peer institutions and other Big Ten universities, including those at the University of Iowa, the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, Indiana University, the University of Minnesota, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Pennsylvania State University, Purdue University, the University of Wisconsin-Madison, Rutgers University, the University of California, Berkeley, the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, and Iowa State University. A summary of research is attached to this report as Appendix 2. The committee looked at which students are covered by the policies and procedures at these institutions, and considered the format of the grades and their distribution.

The APAS Committee found that many institutions in the Big Ten refer to Early Warning Grades as "mid-term grades," "early evaluation grades," or "early progress reports." The committee considered whether Early Warning Grades should be referred to as such, since some concern was raised over the fact that the word "warning" implies that a student is doing poorly, even when the student may not be at risk for failing or earning a low grade in the course. The committee discussed a number of options and ultimately agreed that Mid-Term Grades is the most appropriate term for these grades.

Overall Findings

The APAS Committee noted that the motivation for the original proposal was a general desire for improved feedback on student progress. Potential forms of feedback include graded assignments and exams, homework, and Mid-Term Grades. Of these, Mid-Term Grades are particularly important, because they are available to the student's Academic Advisor and to the College or School. Although Mid-Term Grades are currently considered to be part of best practice in the classroom, in any given semester less than half of the requested Mid-Term Grades are issued. The reasons for this low compliance are not altogether clear. Syncing ELMS with the University of Maryland Electronic Grading (UMEG) System is not altogether straightforward, and in some cases Mid-Term Grades may be reported to the students, but not to the University via UMEG. In other cases the course structure may make Mid-Term Grades impractical. At the same time, information from advisors, administrators, and students made it clear that Mid-Term Grades provide extremely valuable information, and should be an integral part of campus practice.

The APAS Committee concluded that the establishment of an official policy on Mid-Term Grades for Undergraduate Students is justified as a first step in addressing the continued need for strong communication between all instructors and their students regarding student performance. The committee feels that establishing such a policy will help encourage compliance with best practice. Many of those consulted felt that Mid-Term Grades should be issued for all undergraduate students, but the committee felt that it would be preferable to establish a policy consistent with current practice; the policy could then be re-evaluated in the future to consider whether expanding the scope to include upper-level students would be beneficial.

The APAS Committee unanimously agrees that the University should have an official policy on Mid-Term Grades for Undergraduate Students. Having such a supportive policy for undergraduate students reinforces the University's commitment to student success, effective retention efforts, and strong graduation rates.

The committee also recognized that Mid-Term Grades are only part of a comprehensive structure of feedback and progress reports, and that many students would benefit from improved feedback. ELMS provides a diverse suite of tools intended to enhance the classroom experience, including both traditional and novel assessment mechanisms. There are important opportunities for improving the student experience by making appropriate use of ELMS.

Thus, as detailed in the following section, the APAS Committee recommends:

- 1) Adopting a formal University policy on Mid-Term Grades,
- 2) Revising and enhancing the Faculty Handbook to better reflect best practices on student assessment, including judicious use of ELMS, and
- 3) Urging Deans and Department Chairs to encourage their faculty to provide students with timely and useful feedback on their performance.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Policy

The Academic Procedures and Standards (APAS) Committee unanimously recommends the creation and implementation of the proposed 'University of Maryland Policy and Procedures on Mid-Term Grades for Undergraduate Students,' which immediately follows its report. The APAS Committee asks that this new policy be added to the official list of Consolidated USM and UMD Policies and Procedures.

University Websites, Calendars, and Publications

Early Warning Grades are referenced on several academic websites, on a number of academic calendars, and in various publications across campus. Therefore, the APAS Committee also recommends that all entities providing information about Early Warning Grades update their materials and websites, etc., to reflect the newly codified policy and procedures, if approved by the University Senate and President. See a few examples below:

Example 1: The term “Early Warning Grade(s)” should be changed to “Mid-Term Grade(s)” in all instances of the Faculty Handbook, including, but not limited to, on the following webpages:

- Course Grades – <http://faculty.umd.edu/teach/coursegrade.html>
- Grading Policies and Resources – http://faculty.umd.edu/teach/TeachUM_5.html
- Useful Campus Dates – <http://faculty.umd.edu/teach/dates.html>
- Useful Information for Preparing the Syllabus – <http://faculty.umd.edu/teach/useful.html>

Example 2: The webpage of the Office of the Registrar entitled, “Early Warning Grades,” would need to be updated following the approval of changes to this policy: http://registrar.umd.edu/current/Policies/early_grades.html

Example 3: Webpages with information about Freshman Year Academic Advising (such by the A. James Clark School of Engineering) would need to be updated following the approval of changes to this policy: <http://eng.umd.edu/advising/parents/academic-advising-fresh>

Undergraduate Catalog

The APAS Committee also recommends that, if approved, a link to the new University of Maryland Policy and Procedures Concerning Mid-Term Grades for Undergraduate Students be added to the list of “University of Maryland College Park and University of Maryland System policies and procedures that may impinge on an undergraduate student's studies” on the University Policies webpage of the Undergraduate Catalog, which is available at: <http://www.umd.edu/catalog/index.cfm/show/content.chapter/c/52>

Faculty Handbook

Lastly, the APAS Committee recommends that the following edits be incorporated into the Faculty Handbook [new text is shown in Blue/Bold Font; deleted text is shown in ~~red-strikeout~~]:

1) SECTION: Course Grades, SUB-SECTION: Early Warning Grades
Available in the Faculty Handbook at: <http://faculty.umd.edu/teach/coursegrade.html>

~~Early Warning~~ Mid-Term Grades

Students are to be kept informed concerning their progress during the semester. The Mid-Term Grade is required for all entry-level courses and students in their first year at Maryland (see below for more information). Instructors are responsible for providing timely and informative feedback to all students. Such feedback may include graded exams, quizzes, homework, writing assignments, practical projects, and other assignments appropriate to the field that are graded in such a way that the student can understand the basis for the grade and infer how that performance will relate to the final semester grade. The nature and timing of interim assessments should be given in the syllabus, which should also include information on how these assessments will contribute to the final grade.

The Enterprise Learning Management System (ELMS) provides communication tools, including an online gradebook, and can provide significant enhancements to the student experience. Instructors should use ELMS to communicate grades to students, and additional uses of ELMS should be incorporated into courses whenever appropriate.

~~Early warning grades~~ Mid-Term Grades ~~should~~ must be submitted for undergraduate students ~~who are newly enrolled at the University as detailed below~~. Instructors are encouraged to adjust course syllabi so that some graded work is available for review by these dates. All Mid-Term Grades must be submitted as specified by the Office of the Registrar.

Mid-Term Grades must be submitted for all of the following:

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND POLICY AND PROCEDURES CONCERNING MID-TERM GRADES FOR UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS

A. Policy

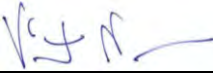

Mid-Term Grades shall be submitted for undergraduate students as detailed below. These grades are an important component of student success, as they provide timely feedback to students about the University's academic expectations. University Senate PROPOSAL FORM

Name:	Mythili Mandadi
Date:	3/27/2014
Title of Proposal:	Proposal to Mandate the Use of ELMS and Reporting of Mid-semester Grades of all Instructors and Teaching Professors
Phone Number:
Email Address:
Campus Address:
Unit/Department/College:	BSOS
Constituency (faculty, staff, undergraduate, graduate):	Undergraduate student
Description of issue/concern/policy in question:	Currently university policy does not mandate that professors use ELMS (or prior to 2013, the grading system on my.umd.edu). Also, university policy apparently only mandates the reporting of mid-semester grades in 100- and 200- level courses. While this may be the university policy, in my experience as a junior who has taken over a 100 credits, that many professors/instructors refrain from posting mid-semester grades. In fact, even in my freshman and sophomore years when I was taking 100- and 200-level classes, it was common for at least one or two instructors to abstain from reporting mid-semester grades. In addition, professors who refuse to use ELMS to help us keep abreast of our performance in their classes often offer no alternative. Both of these practices decrease clarity in students' understanding of their academic performance and thus may prevent a student from seeking the guidance or aid necessary to improve their grades. As academic success is something students, faculty, and the whole university community should be working towards, I opine that these policies should be remedied.
Description of action/changes you would like to see implemented and why:	I ask that professors be mandated to use ELMS and post mid-semester grades. If for some reason a professor cannot use ELMS, he must be required to offer an alternate to his students. Although it is already mandatory (According to the English department) for professors to post mid-semester grades for 100- and 200- level courses, this is not being enforced. In addition, this policy should be amended to all undergraduate courses from 100- to 400-.
Suggestions for how your proposal could be put into practice:	The infrastructure for using ELMS is already in place. In addition, most professors have an array of TAs and graders provided by the department to use for just this purpose. For adherence, the individual departments as well as the university should enforce these practices.
Additional Information:	The university has already transitioned to reporting final grades online eliminating the costs associated with mailing final grade reports. This is another step along that road. I understand that not all assignments can be graded with immediacy, but professors still have the option of a S or U aside from the traditional A through F grading system. The privilege to evaluate us is well-deserved by these eminent professionals. That said, they must wield this power responsibly because it affects us now and even more after we graduate. And by obfuscating their evaluations of us, they harm our ability to improve ourself.
